

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Phosphorous-modified organosilicon compounds containing silicon-bound methoxy groups and a methylene spacer linking silicon to the phosphorous moiety are easily prepared in high yield and exhibit excellent hydrolysis rates. The compounds are useful, inter alia, as stabilizers in anti-freeze compositions, as cohydrolysis reactants in preparation of modified silicone resins, and in coatings.